

Steel Strike Danger Still Looms Despite 10 per cent Wage Boost

WASHINGTON—The steel industry's widely ballyhooed 10 per cent increase in wages was a canny move, but only time will tell whether it works as a strike deterrent.

Reason is that steel laborers are in a ferment of secret organizational activity.

Unlike the automobile workers, who up to last year had no union experience, the iron puddlers have a long and bloody union background. In 1919 they tied up the entire industry in a fierce but unsuccessful general strike.

The passage of the Industrial Recovery Act, guaranteeing the right to organize, plus the pronounced revival of the steel business, has acted as a powerful stimulus to dormant unionism.

As a result, confidential reports reaching the NRA indicate that the men are quietly but aggressively mobilizing, biding their time for another joust with their powerful employers. Whether the pay boost will act as a pacifier is doubtful. First objective of the men is not wages, but union recognition.

In the opinion of NRA experts, the next major labor crisis will be in the steel industry—and not in the far distant future.

Peaved

Is barrel-chested Senator Pat McCarran peaved at Jim Farley? He'll say he is.

The Saturday before the President sent his message to Congress vetoing the veterans compensation bill, Jim called up Pat and asked him if he would go to Bangor, Maine, to make a speech. Jim explained that the address was before the State Democratic convention and that the Administration was anxious to have a notable figure, an outstanding orator, present.

Pat, who is proud of his rhetorical talents, readily assented.

He went to Bangor, made his speech, and was preparing for a good night's rest, when his secretary excitedly called him by long distance telephone.

"The President has vetoed the veterans bill and the House has over-ridden him," he shouted. "The Senate is taking it up tomorrow."

Pat hit the ceiling. If there is anything the stocky Nevadan prides himself on, it is being a friend of the veteran. He grabbed his bag and started back to Washington.

By use of auto, train, and Plane, Pat reached the Capitol in time to vote. But he is firmly convinced that Jim tried to keep him out of the city.

Actually Farley is innocent. He knew no more about the veto message than McCarran.

Businessman

James H. Rand, Jr., the man who has been spurring good Dr. Wirt on to bigger and better attacks against the Brain Trust, once employed Bob Jackson, secretary of the Democratic National Committee, to do a neat bit of lobbying for him.

Rand heads, not merely the Committee for the Nation, bitter opponents of the New Deal, but also Remington-Rand Co., makers of business machines. Last summer Rand's company suddenly awoke to the fact that a large government order made by the Home Loan Bank Board was about to go to a competitor.

So despite the fact that Rand is an ardent Republican, contributed to the Hoover campaign, Bob Jackson was called in. Jackson telephoned members of the Home Loan Bank Board, got them to hold up the order.

There was considerable delay at a time when homeowners were anxiously waiting for a chance to save their houses. Despite this, Rand lost the bid.

DILLINGER BELIEVED WOUNDED

Man, Woman, who Admit They Escaped With Him Last Week, Captured

DRIVE INTO TRAP

Net Spread through St. Paul for No. 1 Outlaw

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 4.—Belief that John Dillinger, America's No. 1 desperado, is wounded and in hiding hereabouts spread today following the capture of Fred Rogge, alias Harry Green, and a red-headed woman companion of the killer in a trap set by federal agents last night.

Green, shot in the head and critically wounded, was taken to Ancker hospital where, according to reports, he admitted that he and the woman were with Dillinger last Saturday when they eluded a federal ambush and escaped in a burst of protecting machine gun fire.

ONE OF TRIO SHOT

One of the trio was wounded in that shooting for blood stains were found in an automobile left behind. Capture of Green and the woman tentatively identified as Evelyn Frechetti, Dillinger's sweetheart, led authorities to believe that it was Dillinger himself who was struck by a bullet, for neither bore any sign of previous wounds.

Raiding squads of police and department of justice agents today were seeking another possible hideout where Dillinger might have sought protection.

In the case of Green's admissions authorities still refused to admit that Dillinger was one of those who took part in the gun fight and fled under protection of machine gun fire.

PRECAUTION TAKEN

Department of justice operatives took all precautions in laying the trap that ensnared Green, an ex-convict, and the woman.

As the light sedan pulled up in front of the apartment building one federal operative leaped from the hideout flat window and let go with a burst of bullets. Other officers quickly opened fire from points of vantage about the building.

Green was struck before he had a chance to put the car in gear.

The shooting disclosed that federal operatives have been conducting a thorough roundup of police characters here that has resulted in the arrest of 20 suspects since Saturday.

MISS SOUTHWARD'S REPORT DISCLOSES ASSN.'S ACTIVITY

The report of Miss Clara Southward, benevolent association's social worker, delivered at Tuesday's meeting, stresses the need for more scraps of either wool or cotton. Calls have also been received for mattresses and baby buggies.

Story of Activities of Pickaway-Co. Men Against Morgan's Raiders Told

Editor's Note: The experience of the "Pickaway" raiding the eastern border, John Morgan, are told in the following installment of C. C. Rea's story.

Soon as day broke we cooked our breakfast, and afterwards camped in a beautiful apple orchard directly on the bank of the Ohio. Here we received camp kettles to boil our coffee, and mess pans to cook our food. Our company is a band of brothers, each sharing with the other and with all, any extras that they might happen to capture. Part of our company were good fishermen, and are now, during my present writing, hauling a seine in the

FLOOD WATERS FATAL TO NINE

Minnesota-Wisconsin Territories Suffer Great Property Destruction.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 4.—Raging flood waters from a dozen rivers and tributaries, responsible for nine deaths thus far, today were taking a heavy toll of property damage in eastern Minnesota and western Wisconsin communities.

Two days of heavy rains falling on frozen snow-covered ground swelled the rivers and streams to roaring torrents that spread over the countryside. Communications were paralyzed, dams and bridges torn away and railroad rights of way inundated.

Floods in many sections of western Wisconsin narrowed home dwellers and stopped motor and rail traffic.

Duncan Creek overflowed its banks at Chippewa Falls, Wis., and held 20 persons prisoners in a textile mill for several hours. National guardsmen finally rescued the trapped persons with the aid of a farm tractor.

The Chippewa Falls utility plants supplying the city with gas and electricity were put out of commission by the flood.

The derailment of a Minneapolis and Omaha freight train near Hudson, Wis., due to a washout killed three trainmen.

Three more persons were drowned in Elk creek near Whitehall, Wis. An automobile skidded off a bridge at Eau Claire, drowning Myrtle Rowe, 21. Two men

Bohnert (D) of Monroe-twp., Pickaway-co., who has announced himself as a candidate for a third term subject to the August primaries, indicated today that he "may change his mind" and seek a seat in the Ohio Senate, representing Pickaway and Franklin counties, instead.

"I'm just considering it however and have come to no definite decision," he said.

The representative also said that there was a possibility that he might retire from politics this year. His health has been poorly, he explained, and may necessitate his withdrawal from active political work.

BETTER TIMES SEEN IN STATE

Many Reports of Increased Payrolls Received; Bank Deposits Up.

By International News Service
Additional indications that business is booming in Ohio were obtained today in a state-wide survey which disclosed numerous instances of payroll boosts and wage increases.

Approximately 1,700 workers in Columbus were vouchsafed "better times" today in announcements of wage increases, ranging from 10 to 20 percent, at the Buckeye Steel Castings Co., and in commercial printing plants.

The 10 percent wage boost at the steel castings plant affected between 450 and 500 workers. Announcement of the increase was made by Albert H. Thomas, vice president and superintendent, who said that the new wage scale will total about $75,000 annually.

Announcement of increases up to 20 percent for workers on an hourly basis.

SAME KIND OF CAR BUT NOT SAME CAR

There should be some kind of a law preventing motor companies from manufacturing automobiles of the same type. For instance, G. I. Nickerson, oil, gasoline and hardware man, walked from his W. Main-st. establishment, Tuesday afternoon, stepped into a car parked in front of the store and drove to his oil station on W. Mount-st.

About 20 minutes later the telephone rang and a Columbus doctor who was enroute to Jackson, O., asked Mr. Nickerson if he had the wrong automobile. After insisting that he did not have the wrong car, Mr. Nickerson had the Columbus man's machine.

Mr. Nickerson's, of nearly an identical make, was parked farther up the street.

VOTE ON OHIO TAX QUESTION NEARER TODAY

Ballot Seen Before Adjournment Tonight; Outcome Questioned

MAY CUT AMOUNT

Money Needed; Demo. Bloc Pledges Itself

COLUMBUS, April 4.—After eight weeks of preliminaries, the main event of the special tax session of the Ohio legislature—a vote in the lower house on the administration's 3 per cent sales tax—was due late today.

Two minor measures were ahead of it on the House calendar as Speaker Frank Cave made ready to call the important session to order at 1:30 p. m., but majority leaders felt confident the vote on the major bill of the administration's tax program would come before nightfall.

There was a wide variety of opinion as to the result of the impending roll call. Administration spokesmen said the bill would obtain the 68 votes necessary for passage, pointing out that they were willing to compromise with the anti-sales taxers to the extent of reducing the tax from 3 to 2 percent, if necessary, and ready to pass an income tax as a companion measure.

PREPARED TO FIGHT

On the other hand, the anti-sales tax group, comprising a great many independent Democrats, who hold the balance of power in the lower House, stated they were prepared to fight the sales tax to the last ditch and would never record their votes in favor of it.

Whether the sales tax bill is adopted or defeated, all agreed the vote would be close and that last minute compromises and trades among the legislators would play an important part in determining the outcome.

The sales tax bill, sponsored by Rep. O. O. Barr (D) Lima, comes up for a vote on the floor of the lower House without the blessing of the House tax committee to which it was referred.

It was wrested from the tax committee and placed on the calendar by the House rules committee after the Republican members of the former group put over a bit of political strategy by stepping up the date on which the tax would have gone into effect from Dec. 1, to Sept. 1—well in advance of the Fall election.

Inasmuch as the tax committee submitted a report amending the bill as to the date it became effective but without an accompanying recommendation for passage, Speaker Cave ruled that the report could not be accepted and returned the bill to the committee.

The Democrats then sidetracked the embarrassing Sept. 1 amendment, by having the rules committee relieve the tax group of the bill which automatically deleted the alteration. The bill was then placed on the House calendar without a recommendation for passage.

Commissioners Give in to State Office; Will 'Experiment' Month

DUNKEL TO REMAIN

Recommend Mrs. Carl Ritz for 'Case' Prober

A decision to adhere to regulations of Federal Emergency Relief administration set-up in Pickaway-co for the remainder of April with an effort to be made to complete several local projects was reached at noon, Wednesday, by the county commissioners after they spent the morning in conference with Ray Metzger, state worker for the state relief commission.

Another development of the meeting was that A. J. "Jah" Dunkel, Walnut-twp., who has been serving as relief commissioner for this county, has decided to remain in the harness for the remainder of April. He presented his resignation to the state relief commission Monday, to become effective April 7. Since he will be of much assistance in carrying out the relief work he has been urged to remain on the job by the commissioners and others.

Other persons in the conference were Auditor Cliff M. White, Deputy Auditor Tom Kruse, Food Distributor J. H. Dorman, and Examiner R. B. Beverly, who was here with Metzger.

SELECT MRS. RITZ

By adhering to the regulations of the FERA, the commissioners will recommend to the state board the appointment of Mrs. V. Ritz as "case" worker on program. This was one of the state officials differed on state counties being of that a "case" worker for state relief families was needed.

The state relief commission, Wednesday, that whether Dunkel continues to share with county itself. Commenting on report that the county should decide to handle the relief cases themselves representatives of the office declared that Dunkel was up to the commissioners. "There are specific regulations which must be followed to participate under the FERA," it was stated in the state office, "one of which is investigation of each relief family by a 'case' supervisor."

COUNTY WARNED

The spokesman warned: "Should Pickaway-co decide to handle its relief without outside aid the agency will have to be cut off from all benefits from the state or federal relief departments, from the plus food distribution, and from the distribution of the state welfare tax. The law specifies that we must abide by the regulations."

One county, Darke, he pointed out, has already decided to dispense with the FERA and handle its own relief. The relief load there is not heavy, he declared.

Pickaway-co will receive $2,400 for relief in April, it has been announced, with workers limited to 24 hours weekly at 35 cents an hour. At present there are five projects here to be completed; one is the north end school, others the Walnut-st. school, Memorial Hall, Armory, and Berger hospital grounds.

Neither the relief commissioner nor the "case" worker are to be paid from Pickaway-co funds but are paid through the FERA "work" division.

YOUTH'S SERVICE DEFEATS TILDEN

COLUMBUS, April 4.—Employing a smoking, blistering service that could not be denied, Ellsworth Vines, young California contender for William T. Tilden's professional tennis crown today apparently was on the right road to capture the title. Vines defeated Big Bill here last night in two quick sets, 6-4 and 10-8.

More than 2500 enthusiasts crowded into the state fairgrounds Coliseum to see the battle between youth and age. They alternately cheered Vines, the youthful contender, who displayed bursts of speed and dazzling, machine-gun like serves and counter-serves, and Tilden, who though obviously not the Tilden of old, still electrified the crowd by occasionally displaying glimpses of his old-time form.

The first set was almost all Vines, but Tilden came back in the second set to win the first game. Then Vines took five straight games to make the score stand 5-1. Tilden again came back to duplicate Vines' feat and captured the next five games to make the score 6-5. But Vines' terrific serves and drives could not be withstood by the veteran and the youngster took the set to climb another notch toward the world's professional title.

Yes, It's a Bear!

But in the meantime consider Max Baer, fighter, film actor and night club master of ceremonies, who is giving a fine impersonation of a tree-climbing bear at Lake Tahoe, Cal., where he is preparing for his title bout with Champion Primo Carnera at New York in June.

Keith Gledhill defeated Dr. Alfred Chapin, 6-4, 6-4 in a preliminary match, while Vines and Gledhill paired in the doubles match following the Vines-Tilden clash to beat Tilden and Dr. Chapin, 6-2, 6-3.

FREY IMPROVED

ORLANDA, Fla., April 4.—Linus Frey, injured Dodger shortstop who was struck on the head by a pitched ball thrown by Leslie Munns, was reported further improved today.

Frey was visited by Manager Casey Stengel yesterday. With Stengel was a majority of his teammates. Although Frey is eager to leave the hospital, he will remain for several more days. Dr. Gray, physician in charge, said the shortstop will be all right in three weeks.

Predictions that the world will go to the dogs if so-and-so isn't done by a certain date just mean another disappointment for the dogs.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

HERE'S a proposition that has been put up to us which, it is said, will assure the success of a recreation ball league through an entire season. * * * We're passing it to you. * * * Any letters you care to write concerning the subject will be appreciated. * * *

The plan is to list all available recreation ball players; then go through the list seeding players and assigning them to the teams on which they will probably do the most good. * * * In this manner, it is believed, the possibility of one team having all the city's stars would be eliminated thus making a closer race certain. * * *

If one team backer has several players already signed or promised he can put in his claim for them and if a board of directors of the league believes it will not impair the strength of the other teams he will be assigned the players. * * * Under the plan no contract or promise will hold, with the directors having power to assign. * * * After a player has been sent to one team he must play with that team. * * *

In the case of the industrial teams such as the Container Corporation of America such seeding will not be necessary. * * * Only men working for that firm, we understand, will be on the team. * * *

It's something to think about with recreation ball season nearly here. * * *

Florida red snapper, 450 pounds of it, was expected to arrive in Circleville, Wednesday, to be prepared for the annual Farmer's and Sportman's association banquet, Friday evening, at the Elk's club. * * *

A large number of women are expected to attend the meeting. Memberships in the association for men cost $1 the ticket entitling the holder to attend the banquet while the price for women is half that. * * *

MORGAN'S RAID

John Morgan, and be sent home on his way rejoicing.

MONDAY QUIET

Monday, July 20, was entirely devoid of interest to the regiment, and excepting to a few detailed to do guard duty, quite commonplace. The author skipped these little duties as the regulations of the service excuses all officers above the grade of corporal from guard duty; so I hereby recommend all you ducks that are, or are to be conscripted, to try and be at least a sergeant.

The afternoon of Monday looked much like rain, and the boys commenced to hunt up boards to make a shelter. Night coming on it rained a heavy shower, and our shanty being a little leaky we were compelled to confiscate some of the boards on our neighbor's shelter. One of us was detected in the act, and was reproved by the injured party with the question: "Whether we didn't think stealing his shelter was a d—d fine joke." We told him we "couldn't see it," and that he must surely be mistaken; as we were the "honestest" fellows in the regiment. After assuring him of this, the poor fellow rested an easier though a wetter man.

ORDERS TO MOVE

The next day, Tuesday, July 21, news came that Morgan with the balance of his shattered force was moving up the Muskingum river, with the intention to cross some where between Marietta and Zanesville. Troops were constantly on the go, car load after car load going by, until finally, on Wednesday, July 22, orders came for the 1st Pickaway to go up the Muskingum in a steamer. All moved with alacrity, thinking their labors were over, and that they would soon once more be at home with their families and friends.

RESERVE BOARD SEES SHARP GAIN IN JOBS AND PAYROLLS

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Appreciable growth in factory employment and pay rolls and production volume during February were shown by the Federal Reserve Board in the monthly review of business. Industrial output increased from 73 percent of the 1923-25 average in November, 75 percent in December, and 78 percent in January, to 81 percent in February.

Private reporting agencies estimate the index will reach 84 for the month of March. Referring to the figures for February, the Board said: "The advance reflected chiefly increases of considerably more than the usual seasonal output in steel and automobiles, while activity at meat-packing establishments declined."

"Factory employment and pay rolls," the report stated, "increased substantially between the middle of January and the middle of February to a level higher, on a seasonally adjusted basis, than at any time since the summer of 1931. At automobile factories employment increased to approximately the level prevailing 4 years ago. Substantial increases were reported also on railroads and for the textile, clothing, shoe, and tobacco industries."

Factory employment and pay rolls were reported to be at 71.3 and 52.9 per cent of the 1923-25 average, respectively, at the end of January, and to have advanced to 74.7 and 59.2 percent, respectively, at the end of February. The former had not reached 74.7 percent since 1930. Out of 89 manufacturing industries reporting, 77 increased employment in February and 79 increased pay rolls.

"Value of construction contracts awarded," continued the Federal Reserve Board report, "showed a decline, followed by an increase in the first half of March. Total volume indicated for the first quarter is considered to be the highest in the first quarter of any year since the February 1929 low. The 100 percent index for the corresponding months last year.

Wholesale price of commodities, according to the Board, "showed little change from the middle of February to the middle of March, after a considerable increase earlier in the year. The index of the week ended March 17 was at 73.7 percent of the 1926 average, as compared with 73.8 the week before and 72.4 at the end of January."

INSULL CLAIMS HE IS BRITISH SUBJECT

ISTANBUL, April 4.—Although Turkish and American authorities considered his case virtually closed and his extradition to the United States only a matter of time, Samuel Insull today began reading books on international law in the hope he may yet find a legal hurdle to place before the American government's now smoothly-running plans.

Questions and Answers

What is wrong with meringue when it toughens and has honey-colored drops over the top surface?

The temperature at which a meringue is baked has more control over the result than anything else. All meringues should be baked in a very slow oven. The correct temperature for meringues on pies and puddings is 300 to 350 degrees. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes until delicately browned.

Are new potatoes better for French frying than old ones?

New potatoes are not very well adapted for deep fat frying because they don't brown well. Use old potatoes and the browning results will be more to your liking.

Do egg whites whip better when the eggs have just been removed from the refrigerator or when they have been at room temperature for some time?

Eggs that are too cold do not, as a rule, whip as nicely as those at room temperatures. It is a thoughtful procedure to remove the eggs from the refrigerator a while before you need to whip them to allow them to lose the chill. For angel food cakes or other foods requiring the fluffiness produced by the egg whites, it is especially helpful to have the eggs at room temperature before whipping.

In what ways can vegetables be served? My menu planning seems to be in a rut.

You might not care for all vegetables in all of these ways, but if you wanted a reminder of the possibilities to extend your menus, there are ten general ways to serve vegetables. Many vegetables are delicious raw, others may be more to your liking buttered, creamed, scalloped, in soups or chowders, in croquettes, in timbales or souffles, in salads, baked, fried or sauteed.

Spring Entertaining—How Are Your Table Manners?

We were asked the other day, "Is it ever right to put your elbows on the table at a meal?" which reminds us that there was once a time when only persons of assured social position dared to place an elbow on the table. It really is all right to have the elbows on the table but is very bad form for the forearm to be there. Good judgment is the better guide in most points of the etiquette of manners. Avoid a slouching position, and if the elbows are on the table, it is rather crude to use your arm for supporting your head. That is too much like the Roman reclining fashion, and we frown on it now.

The question of service plates has come up again. The service plate is a costly, ornamental plate, placed before each cover so that there should be no bare cloth at the individual's place. A fruit course may be served on them, or hors d'oeuvres, but the service plates are removed before the hot course appears. The use of service plates is confined to meal service with a maid, either formal Russian or English service.

A fresh spring-like salad to serve when you are entertaining informally is quartered tomatoes. Rub the inside of a bowl with a garlic clove and fill the bowl with water. Wash the tomatoes carefully. Wash. Four French dressing over the water, cross, tossing and mixing until the water dress is well coated with the dressing. Arrange quartered tomatoes that have been peeled and thoroughly chilled, on top of the water dress, alternately with lemon sections. For an individual serving, arrange two tomato sections with a lemon section between on water dress.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, this poison food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard as you get old. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, tossing and turning, nervousness, a ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you. But don't take salts, mineral waters, or laxative pills, or cathartics, or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that decays your personal charm. They can't do it for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and they don't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all. Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which attacks a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No cathartics, no laxatives. Only one mild vegetable personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. Eat less drug store. noted criminal lawyers, to help him beat extradition, the indicted former utility magnate of Chicago, despite his 7 1/2 years, kept himself at the helm pushing a bitter but apparently losing legal battle.

CLAIMS BRITAIN

Essat Bey and his assistant, Alexander Mango, a Briton, visited Insull in jail this morning and discussed further legal moves. Insull's most recent defensive plea was that, since his American passport had been cancelled, he no longer was an American citizen. Born in England, Insull contended he is now a British subject.

Word came from Washington that cancellation of a passport would not necessarily mean the loss of citizenship, and that even if it did, Insull still would be extraditable, since his alleged crimes were committed in the United States.

Insull himself did not renounce his American citizenship. His lawyers, seeking every possible loop-hole, contended that since he has no papers of identification he has no apparent nationality.

With their appeal rejected by the criminal courts, the Insull attorneys planned an appeal to a higher court, protesting the entire procedure as irregular. They were warned, however, that all appeals would fail.

CABLES FOR MONEY

Insull, now pictured as virtually without funds, was understood to have cabled English friends for money. It was clear he intended to use the several days, perhaps even weeks, which he must remain in custody here in a fight to the last ditch against the American government.

The prison doctor examined Insull today and said he was suffering from no organic defects. He was declared to be in good physical condition, considering his years, and not in any danger from his weak heart.

from the nephew that he purchased arsenic for Mrs. Webb, who was said to have held eight insurance policies on her two children. Discussing the results of his analysis of the vital organs of the two children, Long said that he had not determined the exact quantity of the poison. He declared, however, that he was positive that in each case there was sufficient poison to cause death and that if necessary further analysis could show the approximate amount.

Mrs. Webb, who is being held without bond in the Coshocton city jail, has steadfastly denied any guilt in connection with the deaths of her two children. She has admitted, Prosecutor Lyons said, giving the children medicine during their illness but insisted that it was not a fatal poison.

TO CALL JURORS

Following receipt of the analysis report today from Chemist Long, Prosecutor Lyons was expected to complete arrangements to lay the case before the grand jury in Coshocton and seek a murder indictment against Mrs. Webb. Mrs. Webb is a sister of the notorious Rivers brothers who a generation ago terrorized Coshocton with a series of daring depredations.

End of Insull Run

Here is the route which was being followed by Samuel Insull aboard the Greek freighter Majotis when he was arrested by Turkish authorities at Istanbul. His arrest in the Bosphorus, which is in the Zone of Straits under international control may cause complications between Greece and Turkey.

FLOOD WATERS

were drowned, one at Eau Claire and one near Spring Valley.

By International News Service. Heavy fog enveloped northern Ohio today following a severe wind, rain and hailstorm which last night caused an unestimated amount of damage in counties bordering on Lake Erie and which brought injury to at least six persons.

A 37-degree drop in temperature was accompanied by a 44-mile-an-hour wind that toppled trees and billboards, ripped off roofs, and blew in numerous plate glass windows.

Heaviest damage was centered, apparently, in the Cleveland area. Two walls of the Dairymen's Milk Co. in Cleveland Heights were blown in, damaging the plant to the extent of $5,000. The roof caved in and expensive machinery was demolished.

3 Negroes Executed for Attacking Girl

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 4.—Three negroes, convicted of attacking a Memphis girl and shooting her companion, were executed in the electric chair at the state prison here today.

Confronted by the girl victim in their death cells a few minutes before they were led to the chair, Percy Smith, 20, confessed the crime, but his companions, Jasper Graham, 20, and Frank Mays, 30, died professing innocence.

Find 'Ride' Victim

NEW MATAMORAS, April 4.—Wrapped in flames, believed to be an unidentified man, believed to be a gangster, was found at the side of State Highway 7 near here today. The man was believed to have been the victim of a "gang ride." Examination indicated that apparently he had been beaten to death with a heavy metal instrument before his body was set afire and left to burn.

BETTER TIMES

basis in 125 commercial printing plants in Columbus was made by R. Reid Vance, general manager of the printing arts association. Vance estimated that the wage boost would add $100,000 to the pay envelopes of 1,200 men.

OTHER CITIES REPORT

Other evidences of "better times" came from Toledo, Massillon, Cincinnati and Cleveland, and in addition, it was reported that bank deposits are increasing as a result of the increasing wages.

At Toledo, deposits grew $10,000,000 in the first quarter of the year, bankers reported, and the increase at Akron was declared to be more than $1,000,000 a month.

A wage increase of 10 per cent was announced at the Massillon River and Manufacturing Co. which employs 150 persons. More than 600 commercial and job printers in Cleveland were also benefited by the pay boosts granted in that industry.

STRIKE FEAR LESS

Threat of a strike at the Fisher Body Co. in Cleveland was thought to be greatly minimized by the recent wage adjustment granted to 7,000 employees when the working week was reduced from 40 to 36 hours. Numerous strikes settled in the Cleveland area in recent weeks carried pay increases and industrial leaders throughout the state reported a better feeling among their employees.

Surprisingly large department store sales in all the bigger cities, and especially in Akron and Canton, reflect the "better times" spirit rapidly becoming prevalent, business leaders reported.

CO-ED, WORRIED BY STUDIES, SUICIDES

ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 4.—Worry over her studies was blamed today for the suicide of Louise Van Ameringen, 19-year-old University of Michigan co-ed who shot herself through the heart in the home of her socially prominent family last night.

Her body, clad in negligee, was found in her bedroom. A pistol lay nearby.

The girl, a junior in the literary college, was well known in campus circles as a dramatic star. She had asked permission to leave school a few days ago, according to V. E. Van Ameringen, her father. Van Ameringen is a prominent Ann Arbor attorney.

REYNOLDS OBTAINS BIRTHDAY PRESENT

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., April 4.—Richard J. Reynolds came into his "cigarette money" today. The eldest son of the late R. J. Reynolds, shrewd itinerant trader who carved out a tobacco empire in the rich soil of the Piedmont plateau and lived to see his fortune soar among the first in America, is 28 years old this fourth day of April.

His birthday gift from the father who died 16 years ago is a $25,000,000 fortune—just a cigarette money, you might say.

Reynolds is the husband of Elizabeth Dillard, daughter of John Dillard, president of the Sturn-Dillard Co. gravel washer located on the Island-rd.

CLAYPOOL BETTER

Youngest Auto Thief

BOULDER, Colo.—The "youngest automobile thief," was recently turned over to the juvenile court here. He was 14 years old and was in an automobile stolen a few hours earlier from Earl Le Veque of Boulder. Authorities said he confessed to three other auto thefts.

VOTE ON OHIO

crats it was agreed to vote solidly for a revenue raising program designed to provide the state with $68,500,000 annually, based on the 3 per cent sales tax in conjunction with an income tax of 1 to 5 per cent.

Virtually all of this revenue would go for financing the public schools for which the state would provide the entire foundation program. The plan of the Democratic caucus contemplates repealing all mandated school levies within the 10-mill real estate tax limitation, thus releasing this present school revenue for the operation of local governments.

If the legislature agrees to a sales tax and leaves the rate at 3 per cent, as recommended by the administration, the caucus Democrats proposed to repeal most of the so-called nuisance taxes such as that on cigars, cosmetics, admissions and soft drinks with the exception of 3.2 beer.

However, if the sales tax rate is reduced to 2 per cent they propose to leave the cigar tax stand and re-enact the liquid fuel tax in addition to which they would have a tax on chain stores estimated to produce $3,000,000 annually.

The 3 per cent sales tax is calculated to net the state at least $52,500,000 a year, while the 2 per cent tax was expected to yield about $34,000,000.

With a 2 per cent sales tax the Democrats also contemplate increasing the utilities excise tax to yield $4,000,000 and the personal property tax to yield an additional $3,000,000.

FINANCES NEEDED

As outlined at the Democratic caucus the legislature faces the problem of raising $71,647,000 all together for 1935, divided as follows:

Lower Elementary Schools, $120,000; high schools, $120,000; school transportation, $4,072,000; Muskingum conservancy project, $2,000,000; Old Age pensions, $1,000,000 (in addition to revenue from liquor); mothers pensions, $1,000,000; kindergartens, $250,000; and welfare institution improvements, $350,000.

The organization Democrats, having proposed a method of raising $68,000,000 of this amount, left it to be decided after the sales tax vote is out of the way, how they hope to raise the remainder of the almost $72,000,000.

While the Democrats were formulating their program, Rep. James Jones (R) Ravenna, the minority floor leader, called a meeting of the House Republicans at which it was decided to stay on the job until a permanent program is enacted, but to make no effort to force a program of their own on the legislature.

"The Republicans do not have enough members to put through a program of their own," said Jones. "It is up to the Democrats to come forward with one they can agree upon. We will stay on the job as long as necessary."

While the lower House was wrestling with the problem of raising more revenue, the Senate was passing a bill by Sen. W. H. Annat (D) Cleveland, to raise the salaries of general assembly members from $1,000 a year to $1,500 and the salary of the lieutenant governor from $2,000 to $2,500.

Loud cheers from House members greeted Speaker Cave's announcement that the bill had passed the Senate and been sent to the lower House. The vote in the Senate was 17 to 7, the majority being barely sufficient to put the bill over.

The Senate also passed a bill by Sen. Earl Lewis (R) St. Clairsville, making the budget laws conform with the new 10-mill tax limitation on real estate, the vote being 23 to 1.

Franklin-Pickaway seeing the position

COLUMBUS, April 4.—Cornstalk club, rural Ohio house of representatives, wanted a united front today in opposition to adjournment of the legislature before a permanent program has been enacted.

According to Rep. Calvin Swan (D) Appleton, president of the bloc, all but two of the bloc went on record as opposed to enactment of a retail sales tax.

Members signing a resolution opposing sine die adjournment "will an adequate educational and taxation program is passed" included:

BOHNERT MEMBERS

Reps. Swan, Limes (D) Ridge-way; Armbruster (D) Napoleon; Bohnert (D) Pickaway; Deibel (R) Medina; Kaser (D) Sidney; Headington (D) Mt. Vernon; Lemmann (D) Fremont; Schaefer (D) Ft. Jennings; and Maxwell (D) Hicksville.

Anti-sales tax advocates feared administration leaders might attempt to force an adjournment without enacting any tax program, in the event the administration's sales tax is defeated.

KNAVE'S GIRL

By JOAN CLAYTON

COPYRIGHT 1932, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER FORTY-SEVEN

There was an instant of silence. Patricia's eyes blazed in the pallor of her face. One hand was pressed against her heart.

"You won't," she whispered. "I'm sorry, Patricia, but I must certainly will."

"No, Julian, no, you couldn't be so rotten."

He winced. Incredibly, she guessed that underneath it all he was as wretched as herself. He had laid down an ultimatum. Still, she had never seen him less the old, triumphant Julian Haverholt, striking his own bargain, exulting in his strength and in his power. This man was not exultant. He was unhappy too.

"But why?" she asked him pitifully. "Why, Julian, should you try to spoil my life?"

"I'm not trying to spoil your life, I'm trying to save it for you." "You're doing no such thing," she cried, overwrought and frantic. "You don't like Clark. You're jealous. You're thinking of yourself."

His look frightened her. He was so strange and white. As he stood up she pressed back and back. The man advanced. He made no effort to touch her; he merely stopped before her and looked straight into her fearful eyes.

"Of course, I'm jealous," he said deliberately. "Why should I trouble to hide the fact? I love you, Patricia."

"I know all about your kind of love," she told him, attempting to seem scornful and remote, but only sounding frightened.

"You know nothing about my kind of love. I've never loved a woman before as I love you. Don't you understand, Patricia? I'm offering marriage. I want to marry you."

In other moods she might have smiled at the phrasing of this odd proposal. It was so typical of Julian. King Cophetua might as well have addressed his beggar maid. Still, Patricia did not smile. Julian loved her. A strange and twisted love perhaps, but the only kind he knew. From the hall outside he heard the slow, inexorable ticking of the clock. She must say something. Her glance was stricken. She could not speak. Julian caught her hands and raised them to his lips.

"I'm mad about you, darling."

"You make it hard for me," she faltered.

"It will be hard for both of us," he admitted, scowling, jerked back to reality. Still, it had not occurred to him that Patricia might refuse. He said, "There will be a scandal naturally. But, you won't mind that, will you, dear?"

"I would mind," said Patricia, "but I'm not accepting you."

"You're not?"

"His astonishment was ludicrous."

"Why not?"

"Chiefly, because I don't love you."

"You're going to love me?"

"No, Julian, you're quite wrong."

She looked at him clearly and dispassionately.

"You are speaking different languages. We think thoughts entirely different. We could never understand one another. I could no more love you than I could love an Eskimo."

"You're making phrases."

"I'm telling you the truth."

"But, not all the truth." His face was dark with jealousy. "You have got your mind on Clark, haven't you?"

"Reckless Clark out of this, please."

She requested, controlling her rising anger.

"If I can't have you," he declared.

"I know all about your kind of love," she told him, attempting to seem scornful and remote.

his expression baffled yet undeterred. "If I can't have you, neither can Clark Tracy."

"Clark has nothing to do with you and me."

Haverholt was convinced. He walked once the length of the room. He came back and stood before her. Something in his face frightened her.

"I meant what I said about Clark," the man announced in low, unemotional tones. "I warn you, I meant every word that I said."

"You can't hurt me with Clark," she informed him steadily. "I'm going to tell him the truth myself tomorrow. All that you've done is to force the issue. I hope," she ended bitterly, "I hope you're satisfied."

"It's too late for that now, Patricia," he remarked with a peculiar glance. He said, "I gave you a promise long ago. I take that promise back."

"What promise?"

"I told you once that I'd stand back of you. I won't now not with Clark. I won't lose you Patricia. I won't lose you. I tell you I won't. His voice was loud. It rang in the quiet room. He whirled on her. He said all at once, "If you go to Clark with your story, I'll go to him with mine. I can assure you that our stories won't jibe. Mine will be a good deal less innocent than yours. We'll let young Galahad take his choice!"

"You won't, you can't!" Even as she spoke a sense of the futility of her own words overcame the girl. She looked at Julian with loathing and contempt and knew that nothing she could do would stay his hand. No protest, no plea, no argument could swerve him from this set intention. He was as implacable, as immovable, as relentless, as some force of nature. She was caught, trapped in her own indecision. If she had told Clark long ago. . . . But, she had not.

"That's blackmail," she whispered.

"Call it what you like. It's what I'm going to do, Patricia. I don't enjoy this. I'm suffering too."

"I hope you are," she said viciously.

FOOLISH TO "DIAGNOSE" YOUR ILLS

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

"A LITTLE knowledge is a dangerous thing." This is an axiom that can well be applied to the average person when it comes to the human mechanism.

A case in point is that of a man who recently told me he had drawn his will and settled his affairs, because he knew his time was limited. I asked him what proof he had for such a statement. His amusing reply was, "I have not consulted a doctor, but I know I have cancer of the rectum. I once read a book that explained that certain symptoms are sure signs of cancer."

After much persuasion, this man, I am glad to say, finally consulted a surgeon. To the amazement and delight of the patient, he learned he was merely a victim of piles and had no sign of cancer. He submitted to the minor operation which gave him complete relief and he tore up the will.

I tell this story because it is probable many of my readers are sufferers from the same ailment. It is true that blood and pain may sometimes be important signs of cancer. But it is equally true that these symptoms rarely mean cancer. Even if they should prove to be, it must be borne in mind that cancer is not always incurable, by any means. In most cases of cancer, early recognition and prompt surgical attention mean complete recovery and permanent cure.

A Common Affliction

The trouble I am discussing is a common affliction of mankind. As a rule, it is found in elderly persons, but it is frequently encountered in young adults and even in children. It is a not uncommon sequel of chronic constipation.

When the ailment is present, there is a tender swelling of the tissues. One or several veins may be involved. The swollen veins may be inside or outside the vent and are spoken of as "internal" or "external" hemorrhoids. The condition resembles varicose veins which sometimes involve the legs of stout persons. It really is a varicose condition of the region.

The congestion causes discomfort and sometimes real pain. This grows worse with the movements. This is particularly the case if the victim is habitually constipated. Sometimes the varicose vein ruptures, causing bleeding, more or less severe.

Of course, everyone who has repeated attacks of pain and signs of blood should consult a doctor. Not every case of hemorrhoids calls for an operation. Often a change in diet and correction of the constipation are sufficient to cure the disorder. A soothing ointment or suppository is beneficial. The doctor will advise what to do.

Answers to Health Queries

J. H. Q.—What can be done for large veins in the hands and arms? I have been told to avoid touching the glands and arms in hot water but apart from this nothing definite has been advised.

A.—Some persons have more prominent veins than others. In this case nothing can be done to correct the condition. Exertion and strain will naturally tend to make the veins more noticeable.

F. F. Q.—What causes a severe pain right above the left hip? 2: What should a boy of 19, 6 feet 3 inches tall, weigh? What should a girl of 22, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weigh?

A.—It would be difficult to advise without making an examination. Consult your doctor and he will give you full information along these lines.

2: They should weigh 173 and 123 pounds, respectively. This would be about average for their respective ages and heights as determined by examination of a large number of persons.

DON'T BE TOO HARSH

Don't be too harsh,—you never know
The road some brother has to go;
There may be giants on his way
Which he must meet 'most every day
And fight with all the strength he's got
As some one ridicules a lot.
Along his path there may be trial
And low who ever kindly smile;
The stones may cut his tired feet
While in his breast a heart may beat
That's bigger than the whole of earth
And there reside so much of worth.
Be not too harsh until you're sure
How much he has to now endure;
You know not what he's had to bear
Of burdens great or woe and care;
How hard the battles that he's fought,
How oft' by trachery been caught;
The little mouths he's tried to feed
Or how he heard the cries of need;
The storms which blew across his life
And brought so much of wreck and strife;
Be not too harsh on any man
For he may do the best he can.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Europe, meant a real promotion over Washington. But Cardenas opposed it. As a youngster he had served many years in the United States, knew it most intimately, more or less grew up with the State Department officials.

Therefore he wrote his government:

"In Washington, I am perhaps 80 per cent efficient. In London, where I know few people my efficiency would be 25 per cent. My value to Spain lies in the fact that I have come to know the United States."

Madrid listened, took the advice—temporarily. Later, needing its best possible man in Paris, a post perhaps more important than London, Cardenas was ordered to become Ambassador to France.

Impossible to refuse twice, he has accepted.

Merry-Go-Round

Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada once was Reno's most successful divorce lawyer, won Mary Pickford her divorce from Owen Moore.

As a reward she gave him the house she had purchased for her divorce residence. The Italian Embassy has been receiving hints for invitations to the smart party to be given by the Embassy's three bachelors—Miguel, Tommasi and Ferrero. One hint came in the form of a telegram from the Ladies' Knitting Circle of Wilmington, Del., asking for invitations.

Congressman Kelley of Illinois once played professional baseball. Senator Reynolds of North Carolina was captain of the University of N. C. track team.

Sam Zanoff, crack Washington photographer, has taken a portrait shot of almost every President in the last two decades. He found Taft the easiest to handle and Hoover the hardest. The latter never would take his eyes from the floor.

Members of the new Soviet Embassy staff are a study in contrasts. They have rented as a residence the home of Mrs. Joe Leiter, wife of the one-time Chicago wheat king.

The house is one of the show places of Washington. But coming down on the train from New York the other day, the new Soviet consul general shunned a porter, insisted upon gathering up all his paper-wrapped bundles in his arms, and strode through the Union Station like an immigrant.
